DETAILED ACTION

Election/Restrictions

1. Restriction to one of the following inventions is required under 35 U.S.C. 121:
 - I. Claims 1-4 and 11-15, drawn to controller with an interface circuit, classified in class 307, subclass 147.
 - II. Claims 5-10, drawn to an extension cable, classified in class 174, subclass 69.
 - III. Claims 16-19, drawn to an electrical system with temperature feedback system, classified in class 219, subclass 667.
2. The inventions are distinct, each from the other because of the following reasons:
3. Inventions III and I are related as combination and subcombination. Inventions in this relationship are distinct if it can be shown that (1) the combination as claimed does not require the particulars of the subcombination as claimed for patentability, and (2) that the subcombination has utility by itself or in other combinations (MPEP § 806.05(c)). In the instant case, the combination as claimed does not require the particulars of the subcombination as claimed because it does not require the coupling of the conductors to ground through a capacitor but rather it uses a grounded conductive shield instead. The subcombination has separate utility such as for directly coupling a temperature sensor to the controller of a system without the use of an extension cable (see claim 11).

Art Unit: 3742

4. Inventions III and II are related as combination and subcombination. Inventions in this relationship are distinct if it can be shown that (1) the combination as claimed does not require the particulars of the subcombination as claimed for patentability, and (2) that the subcombination has utility by itself or in other combinations (MPEP § 806.05(c)). In the instant case, the combination as claimed does not require the particulars of the subcombination as claimed because it does not require the first and second connectors. The subcombination has separate utility such as for use with other electrical systems without any interface circuit.

5. Inventions I and II are related as subcombinations disclosed as usable together in a single combination. The subcombinations are distinct from each other if they are shown to be separately usable. In the instant case, Invention I has separate utility such as for coupling a temperature sensor directly to the controller of a system without the use of an extension cable of Invention II and Invention II can be used for other electrical systems without any interface circuit. See MPEP § 806.05(d).

6. Because these inventions are distinct for the reasons given above and have acquired a separate status in the art as shown by their different classification and because of their recognized divergent subject matter, restriction for examination purposes as indicated is proper.

7. Applicant is advised that the reply to this requirement to be complete must include an election of the invention to be examined even though the requirement be traversed (37 CFR 1.143).
